

Welcome

The Hamilton family and agents have much to offer us and many secrets. Megan Hamilton, investigative journalist, and wife to AJ Hamilton, has decided to start a newspaper to disclose those secrets.

Megan is a pseudonym for me and Helen McNabb, beta reader extraordinaire. We've concocted this newspaper to keep your love for HIS alive.

Now, sit back and enjoy. A new issue will be out soon!

Guest writers: Sheila Kell, Helen McNabb,
Kelly McKenzie

Answer: Montana

Tattler of the Day

Reagan got a hoverboard and she won't let me ride it. I think it's totally unfair.

My interview with the author

As odd as it is to read books based on your life, it was even more odd to interview the author as we'd spent months with her interviewing us for our books. Now that the tables have turned, I'm ready to dig into her life.

Megan: Who is your favorite HIS character?

Sheila: When I write, the main characters become my favorite du jour. But, if I was to pick just one, I'd pick Reagan Hamilton. I can't wait until she grows up. She's going to be a force to be reckoned with.

Megan: Who is next in the lineup?

Sheila: I'm writing Steve "Romeo" Smith's story now. I just finished the first chapter. I'm not sure where I'm going yet.

Megan: Were you really in the military?

Sheila: Yes, I'm a twelve-year Air Force Veteran. I'm disabled or I'd have spent forever in the military. I loved it!

Megan: I heard you are called the "Crazy Cat Lady." Care to comment?

Sheila: Yes, and yes, I've been called that. I used to rescue and foster cats/kittens when I was only writing. I'd have a dozen at a time. Now, I'm happy with just my two cats - Camilla and Cooper.

Megan: What are you doing now, career wise?

Sheila: I'm working as a Campus President of Florida Career College in Margate, Florida. It keeps me busy during the week, but my weekends are devoted to reading and writing.

Megan: Speaking of reading - What is your favorite book of all time?

Sheila: Julie Garwood's Murder List. I'm still in love with Alec from the book. It turned me from suspense to romantic suspense and started me writing.

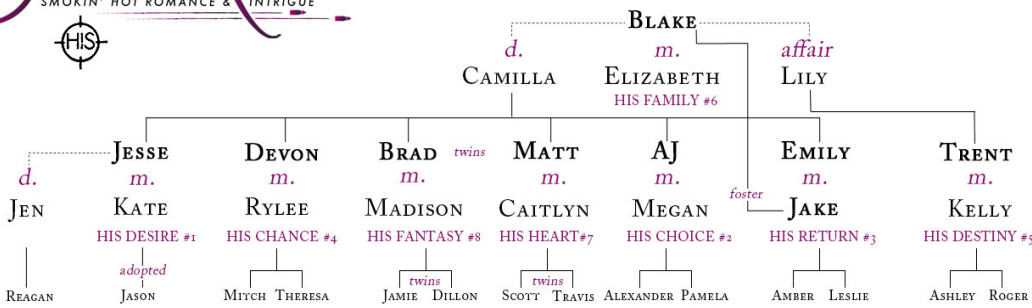

That's all I have for today. Expect an interview with Sheila every newspaper, as we have a lot to learn about her.

Stories of the family

Today, I’m featuring a story about how Brad and Matt managed to break each other’s noses the same day. I’m introducing into the mix, my father-in-law, Senator Hamilton.

“Dad,” I say, “what happened?”

“Hey,” both twins say. “This is about us,” Brad finishes.

“I’ll tell you what I know,” Senator Hamilton says. “One day, I was called to school and had been told my boys had been in a fight. Now, I’m thinking with some other boys, not each other. They’d outgrown that craziness years earlier.”

“He started it,” Brad says like a whiny child.

“Did not,” Matt retorts.

“Yes, you did. I kissed Rachel Jeffreys first. She was mine. You had no right kissing her,” Brad states.

“It’s not like she was yours,” Matt says. “Anyhow, I didn’t kiss her, she kissed me.”

“You lie,” Brad nearly hisses through gritted teeth.

“See?” Senator Hamilton says. “They still haven’t settled it.”

“Okay, what happened when you got to the school?”

“Both of my boys had bloodied noses that were obviously broken. I went ballistic and chewed the principal a new one for allowing fights at his school. I still expected the other boys to emerge. Then, the principal set me straight.”

Brad and Matt laugh. “Yeah,” Matt says, “I’ve never seen Dad so embarrassed.”

“Anyhow, I find out these two knuckleheads had been fighting each other. They’d actually broken each other’s noses in a fight over a girl. How incredibly immature they’d acted.”

“We were only sixteen, Dad,” Brad says. “It’s not like we were all mature or anything.”

“So,” I begin, “what happened with the girl?”

Brad and Matt look at each other and laugh. Matt shook his head. “She kissed the entire football team.”

Oh, I thought. Time to end the story.

AJ and Megan Hamilton
Their interview by Kelly McKenzie

Kelly McKenzie

Kelly was an investigative reporter who broke many stories with Megan Hamilton, include almost losing her life in the process. She is married to Trent McKenzie, has two children-Ashley and Roger-and lives in Montana on a horse ranch.

I'm taking over the story this issue for Megan, since the story is about her and AJ Hamilton, my in-laws, during their time in HIS Choice. I'm excited to dig into their secrets. I remember their story so well, but there was so much time they were on the run – and we worried about Megan – that we need to know about. So, without further ado, let's get to it.

"I still can't believe I'm giving up the story to someone else," Megan says as she folds her arms over her chest.

"Well," I retort, "we know who the better journalist is."

"Ladies," AJ interjects, "this story is about Megan and me, not which of you is better at writing. You're both damn good. Just leave it at that."

"Always the peacemaker," Megan coos. She really has lost her mind over this man.

"So, back to the beginning. Megan, how on earth could you have gone off with him? I mean, he's great now, but then, he was a hired killer."

"I knew there was something better within him. But I admit, the bad boy had some real appeal." She smiles at her husband.

"AJ, what the heck happened to you?" I ask.

AJ sighs. "I just went through a really bad phase in my life and playing the role got to me. I got lost in it."

"Why take Megan when you were running for your life?" I ask.

"Because I needed her more than I thought I'd ever need someone. She made me feel again. She made me want to live."

The two hold hands and Megan leans over and kisses him. "I'm glad you found yourself again," she said softly.

"So, am I. I'm glad I found you."

"I needed her more than I thought I'd ever need someone."

- AJ Hamilton

"Okay, it's getting thick in here," I add, wishing my husband was near.

"Megan, how did Bob adjust to another man in the house?"

She laughs. "He didn't like it at first—"

"Like it?" AJ cuts in. "He peed on my underwear."

"Well, you shouldn't have left them on the floor." Megan turns back to me. "Anyhow, Bob tolerates him now. They share the space fine."

"We're about out of time, is there anything you want the readers to know about your adventure?"

They look at each other and smile. They really are a sickeningly sweet couple. I'm happy for my friend, though.

"Yeah, we'd do it all over again," they say in unison.
